Swimmer drowns in Drag Lake

A cottage owner on Drag Lake is dead, following a drowning accident earlier this week.

The victim, 55 year old Leila K. Siltanen of Ajax, was found dead in six feet of water, ten feet from the family cottage dock at 8:30 p.m. Monday. She had been observed swimming from the dock about 45 minutes earlier.

This was the third water-related death in Haliburton County this summer.

The mishap was investigated by Constable Ron Buchanan.

Car found

In other law enforcement news, a traffic violation by a Minden man resulted in the recovery of a stolen car on July 28. The driver of the stolen car, Terry Alton, was charged with theft and driving while under licence suspension.

Constable Boyd Jarvis was the investigating officer.

Injury

A traffic accident on July 29, resulted in one injury. The Minden OPP report that a car driven by David Stevenson of Niagara Falls skidded on wet pavement on the Kennisis Lake Road and collided with a loaded dump truck driven by Neilson Sisson of Guilford Township. Stevenson was treated and released at Haliburton Hospital. Damage was put at $21,000.

Constable Al Barnes investigated the mishap.

Failing to share

A charge of failing to share a highway was laid against James Cuthbertson of Mississauga after an accident on Highway 118 east of Carnarvon. The Cuthbertson vehicle crossed the centre of the road, colliding with a vehicle driven by Ken Kich of Port Perry. Minor injuries were received.

Investigated by Constable Brian Sachs.

Fifteenth Yard draws 500 runners

Like prehensile tails and grunting noises, there's something primal about running, something very basic and old that is not quite rational.

Perhaps it was the response of the first monkey when the first sabre tooth tiger leapt out of the underbrush, but somehow - we don't know when or why - the act has become embedded on our collective psyche.

And long after people have needed to move their legs back and forth quickly, or indeed been capable of it, we're still fascinated when we see someone do it better than anyone else.

That's why the Heineken Yard is such a success.

Once again, for the fifteenth summer, runners from across Southern Ontario gathered in Minden on Friday to see who could run from the gates of Camp Onondaga to the Rockcliffe Hotel - a distance of 7.4 kilometres - the fastest.

Unlike the first monkey, the almost 500 men and women who entered this contest wore special running shoes and together managed to raise over $3,500 to send underprivileged children to summer camp. Ranging in age from 12 to 60, they all showed great spirit and determination despite the lack of predators, and thunderstorm that passed over briefly at the start of the race only served to whet the general will to win.

The crowd lining the main street was jubilant. Cheers went up as the first runners bounded into town, and the noise continued long after the prizewinners had finished.

Being of naturally traditional disposition, the contestants, or at least those who could, repaired to the Rockcliffe after the race to rest thier legs and drink of its waters (very much, probably, as our great ape ancestors relaxed at the watering hole).

It was there The Times managed to catch up with Ian Sainsbury, one of the race organizers. "The weather was perfect, very dramatic. The runners found themselves running through a lightning storm

Show features four local artists

The latest art show to come to the Agnes Jamieson Gallery opened on Sunday afternoon to a small but keen audience. The show will have 57 paintings and drawings by four different artists on display for the next month.

Calling themselves the Highland Artists, the group includes Gwen Kushner, Marion J. Hill, Elizabeth Carrell and Fred Seedhouse. In introducing the group, Mr. Seedhouse explained that they formed in November 1984. "We criticize each other, we argue, we complain," he quipped.

The variety of artwork on view is unusually wide due to the number and styles of artists. Gwen Kushner works in oils, graphite and silkscreening. Born and raised in Vancouver, her art was inspired by the beauty of western Canada. She has resided in Moore Falls with her family since 1969.

Marion J. Hill, paints and draws wildflowers and rustic scenes. Born in Port Credit, she has also had teaching experience at Sir Sandford Fleming College.

Elizabeth Carrell was born in Windsor and came to Minden ten years ago. She exhibits versatility as a drawer/painter but is also active in other areas of the community. She has served on the gallery's Board of Directors for several years.

Fred Seedhouse is the only member of the Highlands currently retired. A prolific landscape watercolour artist, he has in the past held one-man shows in Minden, Lindsay and Bobcaygeon. He is currently Vice-President of the East Central Ontario Art Association.

Marion Hill, centre, discusses her work with a couple attending the opening of the Highland Artists exhibition. The show continues at the Minden Gallery until August 30.

In spite of all the complaints heard, July was a pretty good month and was 1.5 degrees warmer than last July (2.7 degrees F). Rainfall was below average until July 25 when we got 99.8 mm or 4 inches, the heaviest rainfall ever recorded at this station since 1947. This all came in a period of 6 hours between 11 p.m. on July 24 to 5:00 a.m. on July 25. There was considerable damage, especially to roads.

Trivia: On July 25, 1979 West Guilford, Ontario received 122.8 mm (4.8 inches) of rain in 24 hours. The most precipitation received in Muskoka - Haliburton area since records began in 1883. Minden received a mere 2 inches. In 1897 Toronto received its greatest one day rainfall ever recorded in 143 years, 98.6 mm or almost 4 inches.

Dorset acid rain report

The following report on the acidic content of precipitation at the Ontario Ministry of Environment Dorset testing station was prepared by Environment Canada in Toronto. Four occurrences were recorded during the past week.

- on July 28, 8 mm of rain fell at the station. The rainfall had a pH of 4.0. The precipitation ws tracked from Michigan and Southern Ontario.

- on July 29, 29 mm of rainfall was recorded with a pH of 4.7. The track of the rainfall was from Central Quebec and Central Ontario.

- on August 31, 3 mm of rain was received at the station with a pH of 3.7. The rain was traced to northwestern Quebec and Central Ontario.

- on August 2, 30 mm of rain fell, with a pH of 4.6. The rainfall was traced to northern Wisconsin and northern Michigan before reaching this area.

Environmental damage is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. Readings of 4.0 pH or less is considered serious. The lower the reading, the more acidic the precipitation.

and it was very Wagnerian, a fantastic landscape to run over.

"There was a light breeze all the way, so everyone was cool, and as far as I know there were no injuries. Everything went smoothly, the turnout was great, and we're all very pleased with the way things went this year."

Having once again completed their archetypal race, the runners themselves were in a celebratory mood. Parc Thompson, Ed Roark, and Cheryl Neave, all from Toronto, came together. They had entered the Yard before, they said, but had done better this time around.

"Actually we didn't do that well," admitted Roark, "but then we've never done very well. The course was nice - except for the first bit which was uphill. The rest was flat."

Asked why they ran this year, Roark became facetious. "A friend of ours has a cottage up here. To go to the cottage we had to go into the run - it was sort of a condition. His name is George Steves, and he has a place on Mountain Lake."

But would they be up for the Yard next year, and the year after that? Anxious looks were traded. They didn't know - maybe they would.

The urge to run goes deep. One could well have asked if indeed they had a choice in the matter.

Nick O'Hern, an Amstel Brewery Company employee, came all the way from St. Catharines to enter the race. "I came up with about 24 people from Amstel today. We're all here for the fun of it. A group from our company usually comes and it's been getting bigger every year. This year our president entered and he had the fastest time of all of us."

At a ceremony Friday evening outside the Rockcliffe, prizes were awarded to the winners.

With a time of 24 minutes and 4 seconds, George Welk was the first to finish in all divisions and the winner of the Men's Open. Second place went to Tim Andrew, (24:24) and third to Bruck Likly (24:28). The remaining top ten runners in the Men's Open were, in order of finish: Charles Nowell (24:35), Robert Moore (24:37), Doug Barber (25:00), Phil Reed (25:03), David Graham (25:10), Robert Saffrey (25:14), and Marcel Crete (25:15).

Jennifer Vanthof placed first in the Women's Open with a time of 26 minutes and 57 seconds. Alenda Morris and Debbie Nelson took second and third, with times of 28:56 and 29:51. The other runners who placed in the top ten were: Catherine Pidvork (31:08), Ina McIntosh (31:27), Jenny Beattie (31:54), Helen Malberg (32:01), Sharon Homer (32:19), Nancy Crump (n/a), and Jennifer Wood (n/a).

Winners of the Men's Master were: Charles Nowell (24:35), Robert Moore (24:37), and Marcel Crete (25:15).

The Women's Master winners were: Catherine Pidvork, Ina McIntosh, and Helen Malberg, (see times above).

The fastest times in the Men's Junior were those of: Brad Shepherd (28:50), Scott Bailey (29:25), and Tim Magwood (30:04).

The Women's Junior was won by: Jenny Beattie (31:54), Shannon Homer (32:19) and Miranda Depencier (33:55).

Trophie winners included: the team from the Toronto Olympic Club, which won the Heineken Cup; the London Life team, which won the Amstel Cup; and Kilcoo Camp team, which won the Amici Cup.

The race is sponsored by Amstel Brewery and organized by AMICI, an organization of former summer camp alumni. Funds raised by the race are used by AMICI to provide camping experiences for underprivileged children.

Gone fishin'

Summertime....and the livin' is easy. Not too many catfish around to be jumpin' and certainly even fewer cotton plants to be high.

It's that time of year when editors would rather join the idle poor on the shores of their favourite body of water, fishing pole in hand, leaves rustling overhead.

This time of year, one has trouble finding a pressing issue waiting to be turned into searing editorial copy. Even the politicians have quieted down a great deal, as if reacting to the nature's call for a slower pace in August. And it's all for the better, as we see it anyway.

It gives one time to reflect, somewhat, and for things to fall into perspective. The lazy days of summer can generate a point of view often lost in the hectic pace that seems to characterize our world these days.

One should not be surprised, of course, but it always seems to come as a bit of a shock, when one sits back and views the "major issues" of the day and realizes that those things that loomed as enormously important are in fact, mere specks on the passing parade. Life is really too short to spend all one's time tilting at windmills, at least right now.

So, with the siren call of the great outdoors beckoning and the caressing breezes of summer tickling my cheek, allow me to, as I have in the past, hang my favourite sign on my door. There's nobody in, 'cause i've gone fishin'.

CPP changes announced

- by Bill Scott, MP -

The changes in Bill C-116, An Act to Amend the Canada Pension Plan and the Federal Court Act, will keep the Plan on a sound financial footing, adapt CPP benefits to the changing needs of Canadians, and maintain the parallelism between the Canada and Quebec pension plans.

Changes to the Canada Pension Plan require the approval of the federal government and also of two-thirds of the provinces with two-thirds of the population. All provinces have indicated their agreement in principle. Following provincial ratification, the proposed changes will take effect on January 1, 1987.

The long-term financing of the plan must be addressed. With an aging population, benefits will outstrip contributions and the fund will be exhausted by the year 2003 if changes are not made to the level of contribution. Increased contribution levels will be phased in gradually to avoid disruptions to the economy and to the financial markets.

Substance

Flexible Retirement: Contributors could begin drawing pensions at any time between the ages of 60 and 70, instead of age 65, with appropriate adjustments to the amount of pension. For example, a person who begins to collect benefits at age 60 would receive 70 per cent of the pension he or she would have received at age 65, while a person waiting until age 70 would receive 130 per cent. An estimated 175,000 people will choose to retire early in the first year.

Disability Benefits: Disability benefits are currently based on a flat benefit of $87.56 plus a maximum earnings - related benefit of $364.58. The flat rate portion will be increased by $136 to approximately $224 per month. At 1986 benefit levels, this would be equal to a total benefit of $588.58. New entrants to the work force and those returning to the work force after an absence will have earlier disability coverage. As a result, payments will be increased to 140,000 beneficiaries, and an additional 5,000 people will qualify.

Survivor Benefits: Persons receiving survivor benefits will no longer have their benefits discontinued if they remarry. Those whose benefts have been discontinued may apply to have them reinstated; however, there will be no back payments. Some 35,000 will benefit.

Combined Benefits: Maximum combined disability and survivor benefits will be increased. Combined survivor and retirement pensions will be provided on a more generous basis. The ceiling on combined survivor and retirement benefits will equal one maximum retirement pension (currently $486), thus increasing benefits to about 25,000 people in the first year. The ceiling on combined CPP survivor and disability benefits will be raised to equal the flat rate portion of the disability benefit ($224 under these proposals), plus the earnings - related portion of both the disability and surviuvor benefits, up to one maximum CPP retirement pension. The maximum possible monthly benefit will thus increase to $719

The Mississauga train derailment in 1979, the derailment of C.P. Rail's "acid train" near Parry Sound, and the tragedies in the Hinton, Alberta and elsewhere repeatedly give urgency to the issue of rail transportation safety in Canada. Why is it then, that railways are now putting forward proposals which will reduce safety rather than improve it?

For some time now, Canadian railways have been lobbying the Canadian Transport Commission for the elimination of the caboose and its crew at the rear of freight trains. They want to move the rear crew to the front and replace it at the rear with an electronic monitoring device called an End of Train Information System (ETIS).

The United Transportation Union and many other groups across the country believe this move is a dangerous one for all Canadians. Not all of us work on trains or travel by rail, but this issue affects millions of others as well who live and work near rail lines. In 1984 alone there were some 300 derailments and 99 collisions involving trains. About 45 per cent of these incidents involved dangerous commodities such as flammable or toxic chemicals.

By removing the rear crew and caboose, railways would be eliminating dozens of safety factors while addressing only the measurement of brake pressure and two or three other functions the ETIS has not yet been proven to do well. The ETIS, as with all technology, is effective only when supported by the presence of intelligent, responsible human beings.

The U.T.U. has grave concerns about how the tests were conducted and about the lack of opportunity Canadians may have to review this issue. Only one hearing in Toronto is planned for Ontario by the Canadian Transport Commission, although freight trains travel through or near communities all over the province.

Fighting fires under the midnight sun

by John Greenwood

The hardest part about fighting the forest fire in the Northwest Territories last month, says Haliburton fire crew member Kelly Mitchell, was the 19 hour flight home in the cramped belly of a twin-engined 748. The fire itself - there were two of them actually - covering a combined area of about 360,000 acres of scrubby arctic forest close to the town of Inuvik, was a lot of fun.

Earlier last month, Mitchell and five other members of a Ministry of Natural Resources fire fighting crew based in Haliburton, went at the request of the Canadian Interagency Forest Fire Centre to help put out the huge blaze near the northern border of the Yukon. Mitchell's crew, which is normally responsible for fires only in this region, was in the middle of a lax summer. Because of the heavy rains, the fire risk was relatively low - even at the worst of times, it's never actually bad here - and the men were able to go to other parts of the country where serious fires had started. Already this year, Ontario crews have been to Newfoundland and New Brunswick and the Haliburton crew has done a considerable stint at another big fire near Red Lake, Ontario.

But the Inuvik fire, says Mitchell, was bigger and further afield than anything he's fought before. Altogether 27 men from Ontario were sent to help put it out, and when they arrived at the site, there were already 50 native and local firefighters at work. And every man was needed; the biggest of the two fires grew to cover the area of 240,000 acres. The distance around the perimeter, according to officials, was about 300 kilometres.

The crews couldn't hope to put it out - it was too big for that - so they had to try to contain it, to stop it from growing and let it go out by itself. Even so, the task was immense.

"We slept in tents at a big camp," explains Mitchell. "We'd get up at seven in the morning and the cooks would have breakfast waiting. After eating, we'd pack our lunches as quickly as we could. Then with our gear ready, we'd climb into the helicopter to be taken to the fire.

"The crews were moved around a lot, so we didn't usually know what part of the fire we'd be at until we got there. But once we were put down, everyone worked hard. Instead of using pumps and hoses, we used hand tools mostly, throwing dirt on the smaller ground fires at the perimeter to put them out."

And sometimes, says Mitchell, they'd do "burn outs." This technique, which he says works best up North, involves the setting of fires in front of the big fire and burning back to its edge, and in so doing starving it of fuel.

It was all very hard and sometimes tedious work, but morale remained high because those in charge of the fight did their best to see that the men were able to do a variety of jobs.

"We were never stuck with one task," explains Mitchell. "The crews weren't broken up, but quite often we found ourselves working with other groups we'd never seen before. The natives especially were excellent to work with. They were good people and they knew what they were doing.

Unbelievable noise

"And it was often exciting. When the water bombers came, they'd fly close over our heads and drop their loads at the edge of the fire, which, in some cases, was only fifty feet in front of us. When something falls from a plane at that height, moving at that speed, it comes down hard enough to knock trees down, and the noise is unbelievable."

The danger, apparently, is invigorating and Mitchell says he didn't know of any instances where firefighters had been struck. "Of course we were warned always to keep away, but one of the handbooks did say that in the event you are hit by falling water, you should take off your equipment and lie on the ground."

The only real discomfort suffered by the Haliburton crew was from smoke and bugs. Neither of these problems was new to them - in fact, they're standard to most forest fires - but because of the size of the Inuvik fire and the location, both were much worse than the men are used to.

Another thing the Ontario crews found difficult to become accustomed to, says Mitchell, was the northern sunlight. "Because we were so close to the Pole, the sun never went down. You'd come back to camp at night, dead tired by the time dinner was finished, but you couldn't get to sleep because the sun was still high and bright.

"And at the beginning it was also hot all day - in the afternoon, the temperature went over 80 degrees F and at night it didn't go below 70. It's a weird feeling when you're that far north.

"We were up at Inuvik for 15 days and after the first week or so, it did begin to cool down, so we were able to wear our hats over our eyes at night to shut out the light. But toward the end it became even colder - one night the temperature went down to about 17 F - and pretty soon we were wishing we had brought out winter coats."

While they were working, the crews spent their evenings at the camp partly because they were tired but also because the only way to get to town was to fly there. "We didn't really mind because the food was excellent. I sometimes think the cooks had the hardest job of all because they had to do everything they could to keep 70 men happy.

"And they were pretty successful, we had steak and roast beef more times than I can remember."

Discovering Canada

One of the best things about their trip to the Arctic, remarks Mitchell, was the opportunity it gave the crew members to see a different part of the country, a part that most Canadians only see in magazines.

"It was all very strange and new to us. The trees were smaller and more spaced out than in the south. It was all black spruce and birch and they were small because the permafrost was only 14 inches below the surface of the ground.

"When we went up in the helicopter, you could see hundreds of little lakes stretching off into the distance, but no sign of human habitation."

On the crew's final day up north, they were flown to Tuktoyaktok and given a tour of the remote town. After they'd been shown around and had bought souvenirs, they were whisked off again for a flight over the spectacular Richardson Mountains and stop-overs in a few other northern towns.

"It was exciting," says Mitchell, "The towns were a bit dusty and grim sometimes, but the people were friendly. We even saw some beluga whales."

So, after 16 days fighting fires in the furthest corner of the Northwest Territories, the Haliburton crew were tired and happy when they finally returned to their home base. The prospect for the rest of the summer is not an exciting one, and the fall rains, as everyone knowns, are not that far off. In the meantime though, the men in the crew will tend to business, such as it is, at home.

"The average is about 20 fires a year for us in Haliburton," says Mitchell, "and they usually only happen in the summer. Most are only two or three acres, though there was one in Irondale that spread to about 4 acres."

This is of course a far cry from the almost 400,000 acre fire they fought in the arctic and such blazes aren't much of a problem. "Usually they can be reached from a road (planes and helicopters are rarely used in this area) so the Haliburton crew can just truck their hoses and pumps out to the site. When not fighting fires - which is most of the time - they are busy travelling about their area, giving demonstrations at cottage association meetings or sometimes, just cleaning their equipment.

In a few short weeks, Mitchell will be returning to Lakehead University where he's studying forestry (the fire crew in Haliburton work on contract for the Ministry, and the job lasts only until the summer is over.)

There's been a lot of rain lately, so it's likely the remainder of his time will be occupied with some of the more mundane aspects of the job. But there's still a chance, says Mitchell, the crew will be called off suddenly to battle another blaze in some distant corner of the country.

MORE THAN A MOWER.

Of course, a Kubota G-Series lawn and garden tractor is a great way to cut the grass. And with a liquid-cooled 2- or 3-cylinder diesel engine, a Kubota is designed to outlast ordinary gas mowers by several seasons.

But that's not all. A Kubota G has a live front PTO shaft drive and a variety of hard-working implements. For example, you can choose a snowblower, tiller or front blade.

There are four Kubota G models, from 10 to 14 horsepower. Some come with hydrostatic transmission as standard equipment.

from the chamber

by Shawn Hagerman

This month I received word from Mr. Robert Frosse, supervisor in charge of Outreach Projects for this area, that the Federal Government would no longer allow the Municipality to become the sponsor for the Outreach Centre. This means the Chamber's plans to transfer the ownership of the Outreach Centre to the County are at a standstill. If this decision of the Federal is final, under the criteria for the sponsorship of the Outreach Centre, the Chamber is the only organization within the county that can legally assume its sponsorship and has the resources to supervise it.

Unfortunately for the Chamber, however, the Chamber and each of its directors is liable for the activities of this Centre. This liability currently cannot be covered as no insurance company is prepared to assume the risk.

The Chamber has always felt that this Outreach Centre has provided a tremendous service to the people of Haliburton County. It has brought together employees and employers in job creation programs. It has saved many of the residents countless hours and wasted time.

If the Centre is not here, UIC claims, questions and problems would all have to be directed to the Peterborough Office. The Outreach Centre is an important centre for the distribution of programs that would be beneficial to the citizens of this county. On the other hand, the Chamber must grapple with the question of who will come to its aid when the need arises.

Bluegrass bus schedule

Since parking is unavilable at the site of the Legion Bluegrass Festival, the Legion has instituted a shuttle bus service between Glebe Park and Haliburton Village. The bus will leave Glebe Park on the hour departing Rotary Beach at ten minutes after the hour, the Rails's End Gallery at twenty past the hour, the Legion Hall at half past the hour returning to Glebe Park fifteen minutes before the hour. This service will be available on Friday from 5 p.m. to 11 p.m., Saturday 10 a.m. to 11 p.m., and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Change proposed in adoption procedures

- by John Eakins, MPP -

The issue of disclosure of adoption information has been on-going for some time. The debate surrounding this issue has often been controversial as some have called for greater access to adoption information, while others say the release of this information violates their rights to personal privacy.

As my colleague, the Honourable John Sweeney, Minister of Community and Social Services stated in the legislature recently, this is an issue members of this legislature have debated many times; there have been literally years of consultation.

Accordingly, my colleague has announced changes to Ontario's legislation on disclosure of adoption information. Much of the proposed changes are based on the report brought forward last November by Dr. Ralph Graber, a report that took a sensitive look at this difficult issue. The government of this Province favours a more open approach to disclosure, while recognizing the right to privacy in the adoption process.

The first change proposed involves the non-identifying information. This information includes data on the health and development of the adoptee or general background information on birth parents but does not disclose the identity or location of any of the parties.

The government will require Children's Aid Societies, private licencees who place children for adoption and the Ministry to release non-identifying information on request to adult adoptees, adopting parents, birth parents, grandparents and adult birth siblings or adoptees.

My colleague plans to introduce legislation in the fall to enact these changes. However, as Mr. Sweeney noted in the legislature, the release of information will be conducted in absolute confidence by well-trained professionals.

The right of birth parents and other birth relatives to their personal privacy will be respected at all times if that is their wish. In addition, two party consent will also be required for any direct contract or reunion, and counselling with be mandatory. These requirements are designed to protect the privacy of birth relatives, some of whom wish to maintain their anonymity.

There will no doubt be mixed reactions to the proposed changes, however, they are sensitive to the individual's right to privacy and an adult's right to know about his or her past.

Paintings please the eye and market

by John Greenwood

"I paint to please myself," Glen Loates once said, and it's a fortunate coincidence the public is also pleased by his art because Loates has managed to make a considerable amount of money from the sale of reproductions, greeting cards, calendars, as well as original works.

Part of his success is certainly due to effective marketing, and the Loates exhibit which opened at the Rails' End Gallery in Haliburton on Saturday is a good example of this. Along with the paintings and drawings from the artist's own collection there was also a good selection of both prints and originals for sale, all organized and displayed in a very slick fashion.

After guests at the opening had had a chance to look around and admire, Loates and his wife Sally (she manages the Glen Loates Productions Inc., a company set up to market and promote the artist's work) gave a short talk on the exhibit. His wife screened questions from the assembled guests, but Loates avoided interviews with reporters, having, as he once said, "very little respect for critics in any field."

Looking at the paintings, you can see Loates has an abundance of talent. As a wildlife artist and naturalist, he paints mostly animals - birds of prey are his favourite - and plants, and he goes into great detail. He spends as much as four months on a single work, and the birds especially are so finely drawn it seems each feather has been painstakingly drawn in. In this respect, Loates' style is a kind of super-realism because he paints his subjects in far more detail than they can be seen in nature by the human eye.

Loates likes to catch his animals in the midst of some dramatic movement. In one particularly eye-catching painting, a moose plunging through water, reaches back with his head to look directly at the viewer with one tiny, startled eye. Every hair on the large beast has been sketched in. In another similarly detailed painting, a group of wood ducks are frozen in flight.

So Loates knows how to draw. But while the technique in many of the paintings is very fine - on a par even with Robert Bateman - the artist is too often led in unfortunate sentimental directions by his need to show drama in his work.

Sometimes this emotional urge shows through only in subtle ways - in one painting a water droplet clings poignantly to the underside of a leaf, and in another a hawk glares menacingly with a very yellow eye. Occasionally, Loates is down-right maudlin, as he is, for instance, in the working sketch of a robin to which he appends an explanation of why he likes that bird ("every year I look forward to the coming of spring, for with it comes the robin.....").

Of course a picture of a cheerful bird is much easier to understand than one of a bird that is not cheerful. We can feel pity or fear for animals, and even plants, that seem to show some kind of human emotion, we can "relate" to them as we do to other people. But a moose which is not angry or startled or happy ... well, it's just a moose.

To be fair, it should be said that only a few of Loates subjects could be described as cute: the robin sketch is a bit much and the picture of swallows chasing mayflies is certainly pushing things. In many paintings, however, it seems only the colours are a tad bright, exaggerated just a bit to catch the eye and emphasise whatever drama is present.

A marketing analyst would likely not see this use of bright colour and sentimental subject matter as a criticism. He might explain simply that the artist detected a market need for paintings with such qualities and is very correctly exploiting that need.

And Loates himself might well respond to the criticism in much the same way. If people like it, he might argue, then it's good and he should know about public taste. After all, as he would be the first to point out, his starving artist days ended a long time ago.

Hustlers shut out Lindsay

The Minden Rockcliffe Hustlers defeated Lindsay Town Rental 2-0 in the first game of the Tri-County semi-finals.

The game was another pitchers' duel with Brian Shaw on the mound for the Hustlers striking out twelve and allowing only three hits for the win.

On the other hand, Ted Moynes for the Rental, struck out six and allowed only four hits took the loss. Two of those hits were big ones as Dave Hartwick doubled and Greg Newell slammed a homer for the only two runs of the game.

The second game of the series was scheduled for Tuesday night August 5 in Lindsay at 8 p.m. with the third game back in Minden on Thursday night August 7 at 8:00 p.m.

Tournament

Don't forget this is the big weekend for the Rockcliffe Invitational Fastball Tournament in Minden beginning at 7:00 p.m. on Friday night when the West Guilford boys and the Minden Rockcliffe Hustlers get things started off.

There will be three games Friday night and action all day Saturday and Sunday beginning at 9:00 a.m. and 10:00 a.m. respectively. This is a sixteen team event and promises to be top notch quality ball. Teams competing are from Toronto, Lindsay, Scarborough, Mississauga, Bradford, South River, Bracebridge, Brampton and Bobcaygeon.

There will be a food booth at the field so let's get out and enjoy a hamburger and a coke and cheer your favourite team. Admission per day is only $1 for adults with kids under sixteen free. See you there!

Members dismayed by apparent lack of interest

A planned meeting between members of the Minden Lions Club and local young people came to naught last Wednesday night. The absence of any young people made it impossible for the Lions to get their message across.

After distributing some 30 notices throughout the town weeks in advance and booking the community centre specifically for the purpose of a meeting, the Lions expressed dismay and disappointment at the spectacle of the empty hall.

Among the host group were Lions President Joe Cannon, three other Lions and Donna Lee Sisson, a recruiter with the Minden Fellowship Baptist Church. The group's avowed purpose, according to Mr. Cannon, was to receive suggestions from local young people who loiter in the downtown area as to finding alternate activities.

"Why can't they take part in their dreams?" wondered Mr. Cannon. He was quick to add that the Lions do not consider their outreach to be over and done with. Youth who want to speak to any Lions Club member individually should feel welcome to do so, he emphazised.

In proving that youth idleness is a serious problem, he noted that the number of young people congregating on Main Street in Minden has risen in the past few years, with a corresponding rise in the litter problem. The situation has worsened since the operator of the only games arcade open to minors, closed its doors in June.

Trent-Severn Waterway report

The week beginning July 27 saw the Haliburton Lakes average at 80.6% which was very nearly unchanged from the previous week. Heavy rains the night of July 25 had replaced the week's normal losses. For the time of year the levels are about 4% above the 10-year average.

Flows from the upper tributaries of the Gull watershed were reduced on Tuesday, July 29 while the lower lakes flows could not be reduced much until Friday, August 1. This gave the surge of water received in the Minden area a chance to drain down some, before being held back.

Rain resulted in flows of the Otonabee River being increased again too. This water coming from the Kawarthas was a surplus which could threaten safe navigation if it should be followed by further rains. These lakes were declining by Friday, August 1, and a small reduction was made.

1. Accounting Policies

(a) Basis of Consolidation

(i) Consolidated Balance Sheet

This statement reflects the assets and liabilities of the revenue fund, reserve funds, the capital fund and includes the activities of all committees of Council and the following local boards, municipal enterprises and utilities which are under the control of Council:

Stanhope Airport Committee
Stanhope Recreation Committee

All interfund assets and liabilities are eliminated with the exception of loans or advances between the reserve funds and other funds of the municipality. There are no interfund transactions in 1985 or 1984.

(ii) Consolidated Statement of Operations

This statement reflects the consolidated sources of financing and expenditures of the revenue fund, reserves, reserve funds, and the capital fund of the municipality and those local boards, municipal enterprises and utilities described in note 1(a) (i).

All interfund sources of financing and expenditures are eliminated with the exception of interest income and expense arising from loans and advances between the reserve funds and other funds of the municipality. There are no interfund transactions in 1985 or 1984.

(iii) The taxation, other revenues, expenditures, assets and liabilities with respect to the operations of the school boards, and the County of Haliburton are not reflected in these financial statements except to the extent that overlevies (underlevies) are reported on the "Consolidated Balance Sheet" as "other current liabilities" ("other current assets").

(iv) Trust funds and their related operations administered by the municipality are not consolidated, but are reported separately on the "Trust Funds Statement of Continuity and Balance Sheet".

(b) Basis of Accounting

(i) Sources of financing and expenditures are reported on the accrual basis of accounting with the exception of principal and interest charges on long term liabilities which are charged against operations in the period in which they are paid. The principal and interest charges are not accrued for the periods from the dates of the latest installment payments to the end of the financial year.

(ii) The accrual basis of accounting recognizes revenues as they become available and measurable; expenditures are recognized as they are incurred and measurable as a result of receipt of goods or services and the creation of a legal obligation to pay.

(iii) Fixed Assets

The historical cost and accumulated depreciation for fixed assets are not recorded for municipal purposes. Fixed assets are reported as an expenditure on the Consolidated Statement of Operations in the year of acquisition. For those fixed assets financed or to be financed by the issue of long term indebtedness, the principal and interest on the long term indebtedness are also reported on the Consolidated Statement of Operations as they are incurred.

(iv) Capital Outlay To Be Recovered In Future Years

"Capital outlay to be recovered in future years", which represents the outstanding principal portion of unmatured long term liabilities for municipal expenditures or capital funds transferred to other organizations, is reported on the "Consolidated Balance Sheet".

2. Operations of School Boards and the County of Haliburton

Further to note 1(a) (iii), the taxation, other revenues, expenditures and overlevies (underlevies) of the school boards and the County of Haliburton are comprised of the following:

| | School Boards | County |
|---|---|---|
| Taxation and user charges | 621,997 | 89,131 |
| Amounts received or receivable | 621,997 | 89,131 |
| Requisitions | 621,906 | 89,088 |
| Overlevies for the year | 91 | 43 |
| Overlevies (underlevies) for the beginning of the year | (98) | 19 |
| Overlevies (underlevies) at the end of the year | (7) | 62 |

These revenues and expenditures are not reflected in the "Consolidated Statement of Operations". The net overlevies at the end of the year are reported as other current liabilities on the "Consolidated Balance Sheet".

3. Trust Funds

Trust funds administered by the municipality amounting to $133,805 (1984 $Nil) have not been included in the "Consolidated Balance Sheet" nor have their operations been included in the "Consolidated Statement of Operations".

4. Liability for Vested Sick Leave Benefits

Under the sick leave benefit plan, unused sick leave can accumulate and employees may become entitled to a cash payment when they leave the municipality's employment.

The liability for these accumulated days, to the extent that they have vested and could be taken in cash by an employee on terminating, amounted to $31,882 (1984 $24,830) at the end of the year. An amount of $12,000 (1984 $12,000) has been provided for this past service liability and is reported on the "Consolidated Balance Sheet". No provision has been provided for in the current year.

5. Municipal Fund Balances at the End of the Year

The 1985 transactions for this Program are reflected in the Trust Funds Statement of Continuity of the municipality.

Rain does not deter Gull Lake regatta

Despite a brief thunder shower that caused a break in proceedings, the sixty-second annual Gull Lake Regatta on Saturday was a complete success. Strong south-east winds in the morning made for excellent sailing and windsurfing races.

When the rain did come toward the afternoon, everyone took shelter in one of the University of Toronto Survey Camp buildings, where festivities continued with only slight interruption. A small crew of hardy volunteers remained outside to run the barbeque - they cooked hot dogs and hamburgers - and tended the beer coolers. Celebrants inside the building were fortified with a steady stream of beer, pop and food passed in through the window.

By two o'clock the showers had ended and the clouds were beginning to clear, so the regatta resumed with the swimming races.

Soon all signs of bad weather had disappeared and the remaining events of the afternoon proceeded under near perfect conditions.

The following is a list op the results of the regatta submitted by the organizers of the regatta.

Open Sailing: Kirk and Rob Hutchison; Fred and Stan Hendra; Bill Jr. and Bill Sr. Lett.

Windsurfing: Rob Beatty; Peter Elmslie; Marilyn Haggerman.

Bedlington Trophy: For best overall athlete aged 16 and under. Attending the regatta this year was Mrs. Lyndsie Lewis, who won this trophy in 1924, 1925 and 1926. 1986 Results: Paul Sward; Kim Sharpe and Dan Williams.

Treadgold Trophy: For overall best athlete age 12 and under. Presented by Mr. Don Treadgold: Kelly Williams; Chris Barret; Kathie Koopman.

Minto Trophy: Is awarded to the adult accumulating the most points in canoeing events. This year the award was presented by Mr. Bob Minto to Wendy Sutherland.

Duncan Trophy: donated by the Duncan family this trophy was presented to Kirk and Rob Hutchison for winning this year's open sailing race.

A total of six paddles were donated by the Crerar and Earl families to winners of selected canoe events.

This year's commodore of the regatta was Jim Sward who presented the awards with Dennis Flaherty who is the president of the Gull Lake Cottagers' Association. Dennis and Jim would like to thank all the volunteers who helped make our 1986 Regatta a success.

Prizes for all the events were donated by the generous merchants of Minden and the Gull Lake area. The Association thanks all those who donated listed in the "Thank You" ad in today's newspaper.

Two shows featured at Rails' End

by Leo Dobrzensky

This month, the Rails' End Gallery is featuring two interesting exhibitions, "Ceramic Cookware" by Ontario potters - a collection of beautiful, functional objects - and "Glen Loates - A Retrospective" - the stuff of which dream are made.

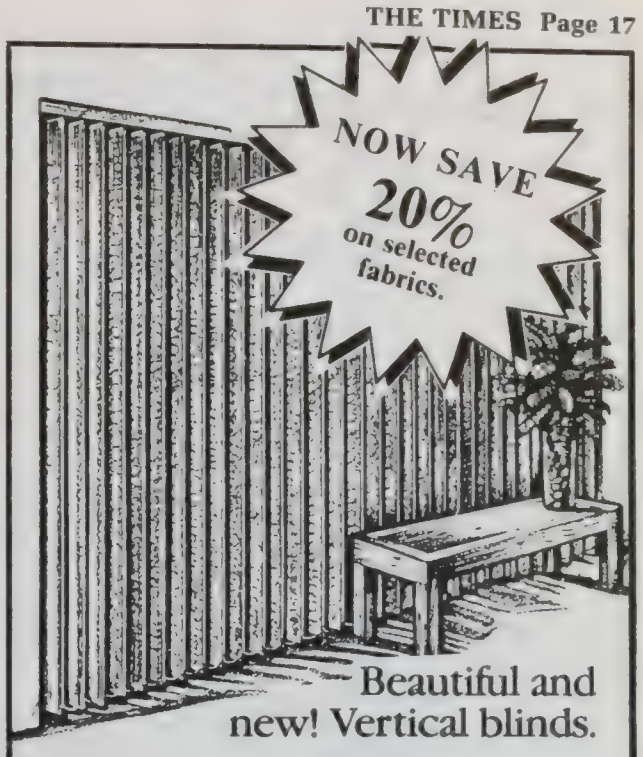
As a boy of five Toronto born Glen Loates sketched wild animals at the Riverdale Zoo and watched his father, commerical artist Albert A. Loates at work. He received some formal training from another painter, Frederick Brigden of North York, but otherwise is largely self-taught.

The artist paints with translucent watercolours and the effect is one of fluidity, lightness and grace. His work includes floral paintings but Loates prefers to portray mammals in their natural habitat.

As a young man, he had the opportunity to assist with the preparation of animal pelts at the Royal Ontario Museum's laboratory. Working from the carcass was beneficial to the artist because it gave him an opportunity to study the muscle and bone structure of his subjects and so provided anatomy lessons which are essential for good animal painting.

Loates has been influenced by John James Audubon and Fenwick Lansdowne. The oriental influence which is significant in the work of these great painters, is also somewhat reflected in Loates' work. The subtle play of light and shadow enhances the detailed realism of the paintings and makes Glen Loates' retrospective exhibition a delight to view.

Over the years, Loates has become one of the most popular artists in North America. While his originals fetch high prices and are sought after by serious art collectors, his works in the form of decorator prints, limited edition reproductions, Viletta China porcelain products and Carlton Cards stationery products, is available to the general public.



Beautiful and new! Vertical blinds.

Come to Cordell's for window treatments. Fresh, new colours in soft, knitted patterns - so beautiful, but better yet, so practical because you have full control of sun. Choose from 32 patterns with 197 decorator colour ways.

The Ministry of Natural Resources is replacing the Raven Lake Dam which is located on Lot 14 in Concession "A" of Sherborne Township. This dam serves to control water levels for transportation, fisheries management, recreational use and flood reduction. Its condition is deteriorating and replacement is necessary.

The new structure will be a single sluiceway dam. The wingwall on the south side of the gate will have an overflow elevation at the maximum summer water level of 350.38 metres above sea level. Steel gain covers and steel handrails along the wingwalls will be provided.

The dam will be built immediately adjacent to the present structure, on the downstream side. The old and new piers will be less than 1 metre apart and the wingwalls will be approximately 5 metres apart.

The existing dam will be used as a coffer dam while the new dam is constructed. For construction purposes water levels on Raven Lake will be dropped gradually following the labour day weekend. They will be drawn down as low as necessary to dry the construction site. This may be three metres. Construction will have little, if any, effect on the water levels in Wren Lake.

Construction will take approximately five months, and after the dam is built the lake level will be allowed to return to its normal level for that time of year.

During construction, the existing access road from the north will be upgraded. Following construction, use of the road will be discontinued and the roadbed rehabilitated.

The site consists of bedrock with very little soil cover. Construction methods will be employed that will cause minimal disturbance of the lake bottom and that will have little or no effect on the water downstream.

The old dam will be removed to a depth below the low water level after construction.

The new dam will not affect the existing portage.

Access across the dam will only be affected during the spring when the southern wingwall is spilling water. This will mean that the possibility for dry foot travel across the wall will be reduced for a maximum of approximately two weeks a year.

During construction, an intake pipe will be inserted in the dam and capped, in order to provide the potential for hydro-electric power production. This will add no additional cost at the present time but will allow for future proposals to harness the dam's small generating capacity.

As there are no migrating fish species in this part of the watershed, a fish ladder will not be provided.

The design of the new dam does not interfere with the possibility of a tramway being built and maintained by local boaters to portage their boats.

The construction of a new dam will allow for safe and effective water management in the Black River watershed. Water levels will continue to be controlled by the Ministry of Natural Resources and will follow the same schedules as in the past so as to support existing cottaging, fishing and boating uses.

If we have not been advised of any serious concerns by September 1, the project plan will be finalized and filed with the Ministry of the Environment and the project will commence without further public consultation.

This is the final public notice to be sent. Copies have been mailed or personally delivered to cottagers on Raven and Wren Lakes, and to affected private and government groups. Copies have also been posted at the Raven Lake Access Point and will appear in Huntsville, Minden and Bracebridge newspapers.

If you have any further questions or comments please contact Rick Keevil or David Goodwin at the Frost Centre (705-766-2451) by Sept. 1, 1986.

Branch 129 news

by Gerald Irish

At the Executive Meeting on July 31, three of our Legion members were honoured with the presentation of medals. Former executive member Jack Bassett received a Diamond Jubilee medal. Al Cooper, who at one time served as Past President for three years and Immediate Past President Bruce McKay received their Maple Leaf medals.

Draw tickets for the boat, motor and trailer are selling well - so well, in fact, that we would appreciate having any unsold tickets returned to the Legion office.

This week's 50 - 50 draw winner was Murray Douglas who won $42.25.

If new members are getting impatient for their membership cards, don't blame the membership committee. The delay is in Ottawa, thanks to computer jam-ups. We apologize but can't do anything about it.

All executive members please note: there will be a meeting on Thursday, August 14 at 7:30 p.m. and the regular meeting on Thursday, August 28 at 7:30 p.m.

Your branch will have an entry in the annual Rotary Carnival parade. Our entry will be in keeping with the theme of this year's parade with a slight variation. Watch for your entry.

We are now taking names for the bus to the C.N.E. Warriors' Day Parade. You can also pick up applications for free admission passes to the Ex. Sign on the sheet in the Club Room before August 11. If we don't get enough people, we won't go.

This may be a bit premature but I had better warn you now so you'll be sure to have your tickets to see and hear the extremely popular Del Dickinson, "The Yorkshire Lad". Del will be at the Legion on Saturday, September 13., Advance tickets are $7.00 each. At the door, it will cost you $8.00 per person. All Legion members and guests should buy their tickets early.

D.V.A. . representative, Gary Barker, was here last Tuesday. He dealt with 18 veterans' concerns. If you need D.V.A. advice or assistance contact Lloyd Whittaker at 457-1093 and he will set up an appointment for you. Gary will be in Haliburton again on August 26.

Bluegrass is almost here. Things are finally coming together. We're ready. Advance bookings have been selling like hotcakes. If the weather co-operates this promises to be the biggest event in Haliburton's history.

For our visitors and local citizens we are making available a bus service which will have pickups and dropoffs at Glebe Park, Rotary Beach, Rails' End Gallery and the Legion. Since there is no day parking at the Glebe Park site, arrangements have been made to have vehicles parked in the Municipal Garage lot and in the former Biagi Lumber lot (across from Beaconbrook Hotel). A bus will be on continuous duty to and from Bluegrass. The village bus schedule and the Bluegrass programmes are printed in this paper. Check them over. Leave the driving to us. Come and enjoy Bluegrass.

Hello Readers: I hope everyone is enjoying the nice weather. Service in the Chapel was taken by Rev. John Burgess, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Thompson.

On Tuesday morning Pastor and Mrs. Wood of Allsaw Pentecostal Church took the service. The Tea Party was brought in on Thursday by the Lady of Fatima Church. We were served a delicious lunch including a huge lovely birthday cake for the July folks. Those included were Carrie Jones, Wilbert Sisson, Janie Kent, Ameila Good and yours truly. We were also nicely entertained by Toos Reid, her friend and children.

The movies Monday night were Elk Island and Labrador, Land out of Time - which was very nice.

Saturday afternoon Mr. Nesbitt brought his horses to Hyland Crest for the residents to see. Thank you Sinc, we enjoyed that very much.

Edna Cowan is spending the weekend with her daughter, Marie. Mrs. Todd is also away for the weekend with friends.

We welcome another new resident, Mr. Percy Brintnell. Hope he will like it here.

We were entertained by the Hughes family of Wilberforce, Saturday night. It was just wonderful, we sure hope they will come again. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes and their six sons, we thank you.

I have just been informed that we have another resident at Hyland Crest, welcome to Lydia McNeil.

Don Brohm, his wife and children were in to see his father, Charles Brohm, on Sunday afternoon. We are glad to see Mrs. Shuyler home again from the hospital. She is much better.

'Bye all for this week.

IN MEMORIAM

WALKER: In loving memory of a dear son, Derek C.H. Walker, who died August 5, 1978.

In a little country graveyard
Where the gentle breezes blow.
Lies the son we loved so dearly,
Who left us eight years ago.

There isn't a day goes by
That we don't think of you.
We look at your sister and brothers
That reminds us of the memory we once knew.

Your memory is our keepsake
In which we'll never part
God has you in his keeping
We have you in our hearts.

Sadly missed, never to be forgotten.
